Bill Embodying State Auditor's Recommendations.

FOR A LAND COMMISSIONER

Measure Will Provide for a New Official to Be Elected by the People to Take Charge of That Part of the State Auditor's Work Which Relates to Public Lands—Proposed to Pay Salaries to Sheriffs of Smaller Counties.

St. Paul, Feb. 9.—A bill embodying the recommendations of State Auditor S. G. Iverson for a state land commissioner is being prepared and will be introduced in both houses in a couple of days. As the auditor recommends in his annual report, it will provide for a commissioner to be elected by the people, who will take charge of that part of the state auditor's work which relates to public lands and leave the auditor free to perform the duties which the name implies, that of auditing and keeping the accounts of the state's moneys. Outside of this the bill will make no radical departure from the present methods.

The other plan, that recommended by the governor and embodied in the bill introduced by Senator S. D. Works of Mankato, is to have a commission of three to take over all the state's lands, forests and minerals and perform the duties now done by the land department of the auditor's office, the forestry commissioner, the forestry board, the timber board and the immigration bureau. These commissioners are to meet once every two weeks or oftener and are to receive salaries of $5,000 a year each. This bill is in the hands of the judiciary committee. The Iverson plan would not abolish any of these boards. The forestry commissioner, now appointed by the auditor, would be appointed by the state land commissioner.

Not Required by Constitution.

There is nothing in the constitution, as some have said, requiring the state lands to be placed under the state auditor.

Increase of commutation for work on roads from $1.50 to $2 a day is made in a bill read in the senate. The measure was drawn by A. L. Hanson of Ada.

Under the present law taxpayers are permitted to work out a portion of their taxes by work on the roads under the direction of the overseer. For each day of work they are permitted $1.50 rebate on their taxes.

The proposition to license all places where butter is renovated will attract attention in a number of centers, especially in the lumber camps. Renovated butter cannot be made without being labeled as such. The bill by Senator D. E. White of Clairmont fixes a graduated license system for factories and wholesalers and lumber camps from $200 to $10.

Salaries are provided for the sheriffs in the smaller counties in a bill introduced by Representative F. T. White of Elk River. In counties of less than 10,000 the salary is $800 and an additional $100 is added for each 5,000 people up to 35,000, after which the present law applies.

The bill exempts counties with over 2,500 square miles of territory, counties where there are over 120 prisoners, counties where there are indictments against thirty or more persons, counties where the court sits seventy days or more and counties at present governed by special laws. The sheriffs get their traveling expenses.

Fees for Boarding Prisoners.

In another bill Mr. White fixes the sheriffs' fees for boarding prisoners at 60 cents per day when there is an average of less than five during the month, 50 cents when there are five to ten and when there are more than ten at 50 cents.

Light and water plants in St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth may be acquired through the exercise of the right of eminent domain if a bill by J. T. Elwell becomes a law. The bill was presented to the senate. It is designed to provide to secure a municipal plant.

The house committee of the whole agreed to support the bill for a third judge in the Fifteenth district. Three members representing parts of that district spoke against the bill, but the Democrats, the city members and some others combined and made a majority for the bill.

The committee to investigate the charges of political activity in the labor department, made by W. H. Williams when he left the office, was appointed as follows: J. G. Lennon, R. J. Wells, Alex McNeill, Burdette Thayer and J. D. O'Brien.

The committee met and made Wells and Thayer its attorneys.

Counties may accept gifts of land and spend money to build hospitals thereon, if a bill introduced by Representative William Wohlhuter of Twin Lakes is passed. The question of building the hospital, however, must be submitted to the voters at the general election and the building may be leased to an association after it is erected.

The house took another turn at the Mork bill, shutting minors out of saloons, and laid it over again.

FEELING STILL IS INTENSE

But It Is Thought That Negro Will Not Be Lynched.

Houston, Miss., Feb. 9.—While feeling is still intense, it is believed that danger of mob violence to Rody Baskin, self-confessed slayer of W. H. Hudson, whose bullet-riddled body was found half submerged in a pond near Houston Saturday night, has been averted through an announcement that a speedy trial and equally speedy punishment will be meted out.

Baskin, who is but eighteen years of age, was arrested following the return of Mr. Hudson's watch by another negro who declared it was given to him by Baskin. With his arrest threats of lynching were freely made. When it was learned that Baskin had confessed, matters took such form as to cause an order to the militia to Oklahoma to proceed to Houston to protect the negro. Then came the announcement that a special term of court would be held within the shortest prescribed time, twenty days, and the situation cleared to such an extent as to secure the annulment of the order to the troops. According to the confession of Baskin, he first robbed the minister and, fearing that the latter would cause his arrest, killed him and threw the body into the pond, where it was found by a searching party.

POLICY OF THE ADMINISTRATION

Fully Outlined by President Roosevelt.

SENDS MESSAGE TO STANTON

Chief Executive Dispatches Long Telegram to the Speaker of the California Assembly Setting forth His Views on the Anti-Japanese Legislation Now Before Legislature of the Pacific Coast State.

Washington, Feb. 9.—"The policy of the administration is to combine the maximum of efficiency in achieving the real object which the people of the Pacific slope have at heart, with the minimum of friction and trouble while the misguided men who advocate such action as this against which I protest are following a policy which combines the very minimum of efficiency with the maximum of insult and which, while totally failing to achieve any real result for good, yet might accomplish an infinity of harm."

In this language President Roosevelt in a long telegram to Speaker P. A. Stanton of the California assembly set forth the government's view of the anti-Japanese school legislation now before that body.

The president stated that the bill gives just and grave cause for irritation and that the government would be forced immediately to take action in the federal courts to test such action as it is held to be clearly a violation of the treaty obligations of the United States. The telegram to Speaker Stanton was sent only after a conference with Senator Flint and Representative Kahn of California and F. K. Lane of the interstate commerce commission.

To Speaker Stanton the president sent the following:

Trying to Guard Interests.

"I trust there will be no misunderstanding of the federal government's attitude. We are jealously endeavoring to guard the interests of California and of the entire West in accordance with the desires of our Western people. By friendly agreement with Japan we are now carrying out a policy which, while meeting the interests and desires of the Pacific slope, is yet compatible not merely with mutual self respect, but with mutual esteem and admiration between the Americans and Japanese."

"The Japanese government is loyal and in good faith doing its part to carry out this policy, precisely as the American government is doing. The policy aims at mutuality and obligation and behavior. In accordance with it the purpose is that the Japanese shall come here exactly as Americans go to Japan, which is in effect that travelers, students, persons engaged in international business, men who sojourn for pleasure and study, and the like, shall have the freest access from one country to the other, and shall be sure of the best treatment, but that there shall be no settlement in mass by the people of either country in the other."

"During the past six months under this policy more Japanese have left the country than have come in, and the total number in the United States has diminished by over 2,000. These figures are absolutely accurate and cannot be impeached. In other words, if the present policy is consistently followed and works as well in the future as it is now working, all difficulties and causes of friction will disappear, while at the same time each nation will retain its self respect and the good will of the other. But such a bill as this school bill accomplishes literally nothing whatever in the line of the object aimed at and gives just and grave cause for irritation; while in addition the United States government would be obliged immediately to take action in the federal courts to test such legislation, as we hold it to be clearly a violation of the treaty."

Refers to Court Decisions.

"On this point I refer you to the numerous decisions of the United States supreme court in regard to state laws which violate treaty obligations of the United States. The legislation would accomplish nothing beneficial and would certainly cause some mischief and might cause very grave mischief. In short, the policy of the administration is to combine the maximum of efficiency in achieving the real object which the people of the Pacific slope have at heart, with the minimum of friction and trouble, while the misguided men who advocate such action as this against which I protest are following a policy which combines the very minimum of efficiency with the maximum of insult and which, while totally failing to achieve any real result for good, yet

PANAMA MINISTER FILES A PROTEST

Objects to Speech Made by Representative Rainey.

Washington, Feb. 9.—C. C. Arosemena, the Panama minister, called at the state department and filed a protest from his government against the speech made in the house of representatives recently by Mr. Rainey of Illinois, in which President Obaldia of Panama was severely attacked. The minister acted in pursuance of instructions cabled by his government.

Secretary Bacon refused to comment on the action taken by the Panama minister, but said that he expected to make a statement concerning the matter.

The national assembly of Panama about a week ago unanimously approved a resolution in which it was declared that "the assembly publicly and solemnly protests against the insult to the chief executive of Panama, his excellency, Domingo de Obaldia, as implied in the parliament of a friendly nation."

The resolution further stated that the "slandering assertions" of Representative Rainey deserve to be considered only because of the official character of the one who made them."

ALL READY FOR THE BATTLE

House Insurgents Appear Confident of Success.

Washington, Feb. 9.—Having completed their plans for the real battle of their campaign, which will center around a resolution to be introduced today, the house "insurgents," who are bitterly opposed to some of the present rules governing the lower branch of congress, held their last meeting and adjourned sine die.

In all about twelve meetings have been held by the "insurgents" in their efforts to reach a definite conclusion as to exactly what they would demand in the way of changed rules and as to how they could successfully train their defiant batteries against their opponent "stand-patter" friends of "Uncle Joe" and the present rules. Twenty members were present at the final meeting. The "insurgents" appear confident of success.

Negro Ignorant of Crime.

Ottumwa, Ia., Feb. 9.—Joseph Hopkins, colored, arrested in connection with the murder of Clara Rosen, who was beaten to death and hidden in an abandoned cellar Friday night, has been released as having no knowledge of the crime. The police have set free all persons apprehended in connection with the case and will seek for new clues.

Dog Show in New York.

New York, Feb. 9.—Lovers of dogs will have an opportunity tonight and on three succeeding nights to inspect some of the choicest specimens of most of the known breeds at the annual show of the Westminster Kennel club, which begins tonight in Madison Square Garden.

Cold in Montana.

Helena, Mont., Feb. 9.—A cold wave which reached all parts of the state is prevailing, the thermometer registering from 16 to 34 degrees below zero.

EDWARD'S VISIT TO BERLIN

Awaited With Lively Interest by the German People.

Berlin, Feb. 9.—While the public is awaiting King Edward's visit to Berlin with lively interest, marked reserve characterizes the expressions of opinions as to its effect.

The magnificent Unter Den Linden, along which the kaiser and the king will drive from the station to the castle, has been liberally adorned with bunting and the police are preparing to handle immense crowds. The attitude of the public, however, is one of curiosity rather than enthusiasm.

The comments of the press, like those heard in private conversation, disclose a purpose not to be betrayed into any emotional exhibition of friendship.

King Edward's visit is generally regarded as a wise and timely act of courtesy, which must be met with equal courtesy and a conciliatory spirit in the hope that permanent good will result. Further than this the people decline to commit themselves and prefer to await developments.

NEGROES ATTACK OFFICER

Latter Wounds Several of His Assaultants With a Knife.

Houston, Tex., Feb. 9.—When Deputy Sheriff Imhoff went to Spring, Tex., a small town near here, to arrest several negroes charged with complicity in the murder of an aged negro, his efforts were impeded by friends of the men wanted. One of the negroes disarmed Imhoff and others attacked him, the officer fighting his way out of the crowd with a knife as his weapon, wounding several of his assailants.

It was anticipated that when a posse went to the scene to arrest the negroes charged with resisting Imhoff, further trouble would result, but no resistance was offered and a number were taken into custody. The two negroes originally wanted, however, had escaped.

Victim of Liquor Substitute.

Harrisburg, Ky., Feb. 9.—A solution of Jamaica ginger and alcohol, which it is claimed is being used as a substitute for liquor in communities where local option is in force, is thought to have caused the death of Fred Britton. Britton was seized with violent convulsions while in a local drug store. An examination of the contents of his stomach revealed a large quantity of Jamaica ginger. Vigorous efforts are being made to capture those who sell the concoction. Harrisburg went dry several months ago.

TRIES TO MURDER A WOMAN

Connecticut Man Then Cuts His Own Throat With a Razor.

Bridgeport, Conn., Feb. 9.—After attempting to kill Mrs. Robert Unwin, with whom he boarded at No. 497 Pembroke street, by cutting her throat with a razor, William Henry Hopkinson committed suicide by cutting his own throat. Mrs. Unwin will recover. The affair was the outcome of a suit brought by Mrs. Unwin's husband against Hopkinson for $10,000 for the alienation of his wife's affections. Calling Mrs. Unwin into his room, he accused her of having ruined him financially through her friendship for him and said he was going to kill her. Frightened, she ran to a window and attempted to get out, but was pulled back by Hopkinson, who cut her throat. Unwin called on his wife at the hospital and it is thought a reconciliation will be brought about.

This is Mr. Jarchow's first visit to the Cuyuna range in six months and he expresses himself as entirely ignorant as to the conditions on the range and as here to learn. When asked as to the rumored resumption of work on the shaft on section 8, he smiled and said, "It's you fellows who are doing all that talk, we are not doing any." Mr. Jarchow is still with the Pickands-Brown Co. with headquarters at Duluth, but states that he is there but little of the time.

The Many Sided Roosevelt

J. A. Edgerton's Candid Review of Nonpolitical Question With Which the President Has Been Most Prominently Identified—A Man of Deeds, Who Believes in Hitting the Trail of Progress and Advancing.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

Lives the Simple Life.
Perhaps the one thing that will be most prominently associated with the name of Theodore Roosevelt in future is the square deal. This he has reiterated so often in word, in act and in his attitude toward every question that the phrase, though in use centuries before he was born, cannot now be mentioned without bringing up a thought of him. He is as much identified with it as is the name of Lincoln with "government of the people, for the people and by the people."

The president's advocacy of the simple life has faded somewhat from the public mind amid the other multifarious issues he has brought to the front, and yet it was due to him and to the encouragement he gave Pastor Charles Wagner, author of a book on the subject, that the movement was given such a powerful impetus in the United States. Mr. Roosevelt not only preaches the simple life, but lives it. He spends all the time possible with nature and exercises regularly. Contrary to the popular conception, he is most methodical in his habits and husbands every moment of his time.

The strenuous life is, of course, only another name for Roosevelt, as much a part of his identity as the "big stick," the rough riders and the Ananias club. It is a portion of his gospel of doing things which he preaches not only for the individual, but for the nation. Striving, energy, manhood, ambition, accomplishment—these spell his creed. Roosevelt chases our old friend, Inglorious Ease, and his son, the Mollified, out of the back door and gives them a taste of the joy of action. One of his pet aversions is the chap who is "not worth his salt." Roosevelt is the apotheosis of the type of man who works, hustles, "gits thar." He has nothing of the philosophical and poetical in his makeup. If his idea of things could be summed up in a sentence it would be, Hit the trail of progress and keep going.

Advocate of Many Policies.
Among the nonpolitical questions with which President Roosevelt has been most prominently identified, some of them to the extent of making them almost synonymous with his name, are the square deal, the simple life, the strenuous life, clean sport, anti-nature faking, anti-race suicide, peace, strike arbitration, reformed spelling, conservation of natural resources, irrigation and improvement of farm life. It is with this side of his administration that I propose to deal, reserving his political policies possibly for a later article. It may be said that the Panama canal and child labor belong also in the nonpolitical division, but as these have been drawn more or less into partisan controversy I prefer to treat them under the other head. The isthmian canal was discussed long before Roosevelt, and child labor legislation was also advocated before he took it up, nor has he made it especially one of his policies.

In order to be perfectly frank, it may be well to say here that with some of Mr. Roosevelt's governmental policies, or, rather, with some of his methods and tendencies, the writer has not been in thorough accord, while with his nonpolitical and humanitarian projects I am in hearty agreement. I mention this for the purpose of making it clear that in this review any bias I may have in one direction is probably counterbalanced by that in the other and to state further that I desire to be as just, as fair and as candid as it is possible for one man to be in dealing with another. In the case of the president this is not exactly easy, as he is such a positive and combative character that he drives men into being partisans concerning him, one side swearing that he is an angel of light with a few human spots to dim his glory, the other faction declaring that he is an imp from the pit who only poses as a reformer the better to work his diabolical ends. From either the angel or devil theory it is well to steer clear. Whatever else Theodore Roosevelt is, he is a man—"an average man raised to the 4th power," some one has called him, but at any rate a man.

It is but natural that one with so many contradictions in his character should show some anomalies in his results. Here is one, and, while I have not seen it before stated, it seems to me the most striking of his career: That while he belongs, par excellence, to the type of man who does things, his own chief contribution to the world is not in what he has actually accomplished, but in his influence; not in the things done, but in the things advocated; not in what he has finished, but in what he has begun and left for somebody else to finish. With a man who has entered so many fields this is necessarily the case. What he has lived to see fully carried out during his own administration has been infinitesimal compared to what he has stood for. His enemies charge that his forte is one of promise rather than performance. This is scarcely just. He has performed many things and put other things in the way of being performed in the future. Yet it is true—and here is the anomaly—that, while he is a man of deeds, his chief influence on the world will come from his ideals and attitudes rather than from work actually done.

Perhaps the one thing that will be most prominently associated with the name of Theodore Roosevelt in future is the square deal. This he has reiterated so often in word, in act and in his attitude toward every question that the phrase, though in use centuries before he was born, cannot now be mentioned without bringing up a thought of him. He is as much identified with it as is the name of Lincoln with "government of the people, for the people and by the people."

The president's advocacy of the simple life has faded somewhat from the public mind amid the other multifarious issues he has brought to the front, and yet it was due to him and to the encouragement he gave Pastor Charles Wagner, author of a book on the subject, that the movement was given such a powerful impetus in the United States. Mr. Roosevelt not only preaches the simple life, but lives it. He spends all the time possible with nature and exercises regularly. Contrary to the popular conception, he is most methodical in his habits and husbands every moment of his time.

The strenuous life is, of course, only another name for Roosevelt, as much a part of his identity as the "big stick," the rough riders and the Ananias club. It is a portion of his gospel of doing things which he preaches not only for the individual, but for the nation. Striving, energy, manhood, ambition, accomplishment—these spell his creed. Roosevelt chases our old friend, Inglorious Ease, and his son, the Mollified, out of the back door and gives them a taste of the joy of action. One of his pet aversions is the chap who is "not worth his salt." Roosevelt is the apotheosis of the type of man who works, hustles, "gits thar." He has nothing of the philosophical and poetical in his makeup. If his idea of things could be summed up in a sentence it would be, Hit the trail of progress and keep going.

Has "Bully" Time at Work or Play.

Another thing he stands for is clean sport. This was shown conspicuously in his efforts to reform football. He believes in sport, does Roosevelt, not only in theory, but in practice. He spends his leisure in hunting big game and in life in the open, and his daily life is seasoned by tennis, bouts with the gloves, cross country rides, woodchopping and swinging, brisk walks. He has a peculiar faculty of giving his whole attention and force to whatever he has in hand, then of transferring both instantly to the next thing. He plays as he works, or, rather, he makes play of his work and work of his play, having a "bully" time in each. They are all a part of the game to be enjoyed to the full. It is probable that Roosevelt sometimes gets tired, but, if so, he never shows it. He is as fresh at the end of the day as at the beginning. This is true whether he works or walks, rides or romps, makes speeches or shoots bears and mountain lions.

The president's famous rebuke of nature faking came from the same corner of his brain—or was it his heart?—as the demand for clean sport. It raised about his ears a hornets' nest, but if ever a man could have a perfectly corking time with hornets he is the man. Writers of animal stories and some naturalists as well fell on him hip and thigh, criticising him for killing game merely for the sake of killing and saying other things about him that everybody has forgotten. That is one thing about Roosevelt. His phrases stick, while those of his enemies pass like words written in water. Whether his strictures of the animal writers were all deserved or not, the term "nature faker" is so pat that it will stay and will have a wholesome effect.

Move of Great Import.

The president's repeated pleas against the destruction of forests, his encouragement of the forestry bureau, his calling of two conventions of governors for the conservation of natural resources and his plan of interesting Canada and Mexico in the same cause all constitute a work the importance of which we cannot yet measure. Anything of this nature makes such a peculiar appeal to my own heart that I would not trust myself to make an unbiased judgment of its importance, for to me it seems, in connection with certain kindred movements, altogether the greatest cause set in motion by this administration and one that will rebound more to its future credit than any other.

One of these kindred movements is irrigation in the west. The plan of giving government aid to these irrigation projects is distinctively a Roosevelt policy and has given him much of his popularity west of the Missouri river. Already vast arid wastes have been transformed into productive farms, orchards and gardens, and the effort is yet in its infancy. It is the kind of work that will bless mankind through the centuries. If he who makes two blades of grass grow where one grew before is a benefactor, then what shall be said of him who makes 2,000,000 blades grow where none grew before? He is probably a benefactor "raised to the 4th power."

before? He is probably a benefactor "raised to the 4th power."

Still another of these kindred movements was inaugurated by Mr. Roosevelt when he appointed his farm commission, but which came so near the end of his term that it is impossible to measure its effects. If it covers the ground, however, if it does even a small part of what there is such crying need should be done, it alone will become an immeasurable blessing to the country.

It is one of the faculties of Roosevelt to bring almost every subject he goes after into universal discussion. It was so with his crusade against race suicide. He has been subjected to columns of ridicule for attempting to regulate not only governmental policies, but the size of our families, yet few have questioned either the righteousness or timeliness of his remark that "if a race does not have plenty of children then that race is decadent." It took courage to say that, but there was supreme need that it should be said.

Ahead of His Age.
Even greater ridicule greeted the president's espousal of reformed spelling. This was hitting the trail of progress a little too hard for the average American. He preferred to spell as his fathers had spelled, even though it were the most abominable way ever known to any language on earth. In this matter Roosevelt was simply ahead of his age. We shall come to it. Give us time.

One of the most noteworthy acts of the present administration was the president's successful effort to bring about peace in the anthracite coal strike. This not only ended a troublesome labor controversy that was bringing distress to thousands, but established a precedent for arbitration of industrial disputes.

It is one of the anomalies of the contradictory character of this man that, while he has stood for the militant attitude and has so insisted that boys learn how to shoot and that the nation should ever be prepared for war, his most conspicuous deed as president, at least in the eyes of other nations, has been in the interests of peace. To the world at large Theodore Roosevelt is chiefly known as the man who ended the war between Russia and Japan. For nineteen hundred years there has been no more honorable title than that of peacemaker.

If You have a Piano or Any kind of Furniture

That you wish to keep in good condition, write us for a bottle of our famous piano polish. From the experience of a lifetime in the piano business, we have finally evolved a polish that stands unrivaled in a class by itself.

It restores old surfaces and preserves the new. It cleans and disinfects, brings out the natural beauty of the wood and at the same time imparts a deep rich lustre, with the least effort.

This polish does not smear, streak or collect dust. The daily use of a little polish on the dust cloth is strongly recommended. This polish is used by us on our musical instruments and has been used by us for years. We consider it unexcelled.

The Many Sided Roosevelt

J. A. Edgerton's Candid Review of Nonpolitical Question With Which the President Has Been Most Prominently Identified—A Man of Deeds, Who Believes in Hitting the Trail of Progress and Advancing.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

AT noon of March 4 the administration of Theodore Roosevelt as president of the United States will close. He will then have been in office seven years and six months, lacking ten days. From the night of his wild ride down Mount Marcy, during which he came into the highest office in the world, to the present hour his administration has been striking, not to say spectacular. It is yet too early fully to measure either his work or his influence. That can only be done by the future which can know the effects of the causes he has set up and can view him with a dispassionate eye, a thing not now possible. All that can be done at this time is to recount the things for which he has stood and to give the results he has accomplished so far as they are apparent. Whatever may be his place in history, he has certainly filled a large angle in the public vision of his own day. Despite the opposition of powerful interests and the columns of abuse that have been aimed at him, Theodore Roosevelt has had a larger personal following in his own country and has aroused more interest in the world at large than did any other president while in office, with the possible exceptions of Washington and Lincoln.

Mr. Roosevelt's policies and activities naturally fall into two general divisions—those that are political and official and those that are not political or that fall outside of the ordinary sphere of presidential duties. It goes without saying that the first class by far exceeds the other in bulk and number of items. It is questionable, however, whether it has had a greater influence on the world at large.

Governmental questions come and go, but the fundamental issues of life remain forever. Administrative policies affect one land, but nature, whether human or otherwise, affects all lands.

Advocate of Many Policies.

Among the nonpolitical questions with which President Roosevelt has been most prominently identified, some of them to the extent of making them almost synonymous with his name, are the square deal, the simple life, the strenuous life, clean sport, anti-nature faking, anti-race suicide, peace, strike arbitration, reformed spelling, conservation of natural resources, irrigation and improvement of farm life. It is with this side of his administration that I propose to deal, reserving his political policies possibly for a later article. It may be said that the Panama canal and child labor belong also in the nonpolitical division, but as these have been drawn more or less into partisan controversy I prefer to treat them under the other head. The isthmian canal was discussed long before Roosevelt, and child labor legislation was also advocated before he took it up, nor has he made it especially one of his policies.

In order to be perfectly frank, it may be well to say here that with some of Mr. Roosevelt's governmental policies, or, rather, with some of his methods and tendencies, the writer has not been in thorough accord, while with his nonpolitical and humanitarian projects I am in hearty agreement. I mention this for the purpose of making it clear that in this review any bias I may have in one direction is probably counterbalanced by that in the other and to state further that I desire to be as just, as fair and as candid as it is possible for one man to be in dealing with another. In the case of the president this is not exactly easy, as he is such a positive and combative character that he drives men into being partisans concerning him, one side swearing that he is an angel of light with a few human spotches to dim his glory, the other faction declaring that he is an imp from the pit who only poses as a reformer the better to work his diabolical ends. From either the angel or devil theory it is well to steer clear. Whatever else Theodore Roosevelt is, he is a man—"an average man raised to the 4th power," some one has called him, but at any rate a man.

It is but natural that one with so many contradictions in his character should show some anomalies in his results. Here is one, and, while I have not seen it before stated, it seems to me the most striking of his career: That while he belongs, par excellence, to the type of man who does things, his own chief contribution to the world is not in what he has actually accomplished, but in his influence; not in the things done, but in the things advocated; not in what he has finished, but in what he has begun and left for somebody else to finish. With a man who has entered so many fields this is necessarily the case. What he has lived to see fully carried out during his own administration has been infinitesimal compared to what he has stood for. His enemies charge that his forte is one of promise rather than performance. This is scarcely just. He has performed many things and put other things in the way of being performed in the future. Yet it is true—and here is the anomaly—that, while he is a man of deeds, his chief influence on the world will come from his ideals and attitudes rather than from work actually done.

Perhaps the one thing that will be most prominently associated with the name of Theodore Roosevelt in future is the square deal. This he has reiterated so often in word, in act and in his attitude toward every question that the phrase, though in use centuries before he was born, cannot now be mentioned without bringing up a thought of him. He is as much identified with it as is the name of Lincoln with "government of the people, for the people and by the people."

The president's advocacy of the simple life has faded somewhat from the public mind amid the other multifarious issues he has brought to the front, and yet it was due to him and to the encouragement he gave Pastor Charles Wagner, author of a book on the subject, that the movement was given such a powerful impetus in the United States. Mr. Roosevelt not only preaches the simple life, but lives it. He spends all the time possible with nature and exercises regularly. Contrary to the popular conception, he is most methodical in his habits and husbands every moment of his time.

The strenuous life is, of course, only another name for Roosevelt, as much a part of his identity as the "big stick," the rough riders and the Ananias club. It is a portion of his gospel of doing things which he preaches not only for the individual, but for the nation. Striving, energy, manhood, ambition, accomplishment—these spell his creed. Roosevelt chases our old friend, Inglorious Ease, and his son, the Mollified, out of the back door and gives them a taste of the joy of action. One of his pet aversions is the chap who is "not worth his salt." Roosevelt is the apotheosis of the type of man who works, hustles, "gits thar." He has nothing of the philosophical and poetical in his makeup. If his idea of things could be summed up in a sentence it would be, Hit the trail of progress and keep going.

Has "Bully" Time at Work or Play.

Another thing he stands for is clean sport. This was shown conspicuously in his efforts to reform football. He believes in sport, does Roosevelt, not only in theory, but in practice. He spends his leisure in hunting big game and in life in the open, and his daily life is seasoned by tennis, bouts with the gloves, cross country rides, wood-chopping and swinging, brisk walks. He has a peculiar faculty of giving his whole attention and force to whatever he has in hand, then of transferring both instantly to the next thing. He plays as he works, or, rather, he makes play of his work and work of his play, having a "bully" time in each. They are all a part of the game to be enjoyed to the full. It is probable that Roosevelt sometimes gets tired, but, if so, he never shows it. He is as fresh at the end of the day as at the beginning. This is true whether he works or walks, rides or romps, makes speeches or shoots bears and mountain lions.

The president's famous rebuke of nature faking came from the same corner of his brain—or was it his heart?—as the demand for clean sport. It raised about his ears a hornets' nest, but if ever a man could have a perfectly corking time with hornets he is the man. Whether his strictures of the animal writers were all deserved or not, the term "nature faker" is so pat that it will stay and will have a wholesome effect.

Move of Great Import.

The president's repeated pleas against the destruction of forests, his encouragement of the forestry bureau, his calling of two conventions of governors for the conservation of natural resources and his plan of interesting Canada and Mexico in the same cause all constitute a work the importance of which we cannot yet measure. Anything of this nature makes such a peculiar appeal to my own heart that I would not trust myself to make an unbiased judgment of its importance, for to me it seems, in connection with certain kindred movements, altogether the greatest cause set in motion by this administration and one that will redound more to its future credit than any other.

before? He is probably a benefactor "raised to the nth power."

Still another of these kindred movements was inaugurated by Mr. Roosevelt when he appointed his farm commission, but which came so near the end of his term that it is impossible to measure its effects. If it covers the ground, however, if it does even a small part of what there is such crying need should be done, it alone will become an immeasurable blessing to the country.

It is one of the faculties of Roosevelt to bring almost every subject he goes after into universal discussion. It was so with his crusade against race suicide. He has been subjected to columns of ridicule for attempting to regulate not only governmental policies, but the size of our families, yet few have questioned either the righteousness or timeliness of his remark that "if a race does not have plenty of children then that race is decadent." It took courage to say that, but there was supreme need that it should be said.

Ahead of His Age.

Even greater ridicule greeted the president's espousal of reformed spelling. This was hitting the trail of progress a little too hard for the average American. He preferred to spell as his fathers had spelled, even though it were the most abominable way ever known to any language on earth. In this matter Roosevelt was simply ahead of his age. We shall come to it. Give us time.

One of the most noteworthy acts of the present administration was the president's successful effort to bring about peace in the anthracite coal strike. This not only ended a troublesome labor controversy that was bringing distress to thousands, but established a precedent for arbitration of industrial disputes.

It is one of the anomalies of the contradictory character of this man that, while he has stood for the militant attitude and has so insisted that boys learn how to shoot and that the nation should ever be prepared for war, his most conspicuous deed as president, at least in the eyes of other nations, has been in the interests of peace. To the world at large Theodore Roosevelt is chiefly known as the man who ended the war between Russia and Japan. For nineteen hundred years there has been no more honorable title than that of peacemaker.

If You have a Piano or Any kind of Furniture

That you wish to keep in good condition, write us for a bottle of our famous piano polish. From the experience of a lifetime in the piano business, we have finally evolved a polish that stands unrivaled in a class by itself.

It restores old surfaces and preserves the new. It cleans and disinfects, brings out the natural beauty of the wood and at the same time imparts a deep rich lustre, with the least effort.

This polish does not smear, streak or collect dust. The daily use of a little polish on the dust cloth is strongly recommended. This polish is used by us on our musical instruments and has been used by us for years. We consider it unexcelled.

BAD STORM IS RAGING

Heaviest Snow Storm of year is Raging in Central Minnesota Today

WESTERN BRANCHES BLOCKED Morris Train Stalled and Fergus Falls Branch Reported in Same Condition

The worst snow storm of the year is raging here today. The wind is not as strong as was the case in the storm about ten days ago, but it is coming directly off Lake Superior and the snow fall bids fair to be much heavier.

The train from Duluth and the south bound Minnesota & International train came in on time, or practically so, but telegraphic reports are to the effect that the east bound passenger from Morris, which comes here as No. 91, is stalled in the snow west of Glenwood. The mail car on the Minnesota & International was turned here and sent north and the cars from St. Paul were brought up by a special crew from Little Falls.

The crew of the west bound passenger received orders here that the entire equipment of that train would be turned at Staples, because of the fact, it is said, that the Oakes branch is also totally blocked.

C. E. Emerson, road foreman on the Lake Superior division, came in from Duluth this noon on the passenger train and states that in Duluth, when the train left, the wind was blowing off the lake at the rate of 60 miles per hour and the snow falling so rapidly that it was impossible to see more than a few feet.

There is little or no snow on the north end of the M. & I., and snow did not begin to fall until this forenoon at Bemidji and Walker. Whether or not the snow storm is working northward is hard to say, but that seemed the opinion of the railroad men.

The train from the south came in at 2:30, this afternoon and was composed of the big 185, six driver freight engine, pushing one of the big car plows ahead of her and hauling a caboose, a baggage and two passenger coaches. The headlight of the engine was broken and engine and plow showed that they had been nearly buried in snow. A force of shovelers was also brought along, but it had proved unnecessary to use them.

The Modesty of Women

Naturally makes them shrink from the delicate questions, the obnoxious examinations, and unpleasant local treatments, which some physicians consider essential in the treatment of diseases of women. Yet, if help can be had, it is better to submit to this ordeal than let the disease grow and spread. The trouble is that so often the woman undergoes all the annoyance and shame for nothing. Thousands of women who have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription write in appreciation of the cure which dispensed with the examinations and local treatments. There is no other medicine so sure and safe for delicate women as "Favorite Prescription." It cures debilitating drains, irregularity and female weakness. It always helps. It is almost always cures. It is strictly non-alcoholic, non-secret, all its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper; contains no deleterious or habit-forming drugs, and every native medicinal root entering into its composition has the full endorsement of those most eminent in the several schools of medical practice. Some of these numerous and strongest of professional endorsements of its ingredients, will be found in a pamphlet wrapped around the bottle, also in a booklet mailed free on request, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. These professional endorsements should have far more weight than any amount of the ordinary lay, or non-professional testimonials.

The most intelligent women now-a-days insist on knowing what they take as medicine instead of opening their mouths like a lot of young birds and gulping down whatever is offered them. "Favorite Prescription" is of known composition. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps for paper covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound. Please consult the Doctor, free of charge by letter. All such communications are held sacredly confidential.

NO DYSPEPSIA AFTER TODAY

Prompt Relief From Indigestion
and all Your Stomach
Troubles

RELIEF IS WAITING FOR YOU

Don't Continue to Suffer When Such Absolute Relief is
so Handy

Why not start now—today, and forever rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion? A dieted stomach gets the blues and grumbles. Give it a good eat, then take Pape's Diapepsin to start the digestive juices working. There will be no dyspepsia or belching of gas or eructations of undigested food; no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach or heartburn, sick headache and dizziness, and your food will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents for a large case at any drug store here, and will remove the most obstinate case of indigestion and upset stomach in five minutes.

There is nothing else better to take gas from stomach and cleanse the stomach and intestines, and besides, one triangle will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all your food the same as a sound, healthy stomach would do it.

When Diapepsin works, your stomach rests—gets itself in order, cleans up—and then you feel like eating when you come to the table, and what you eat will do you good.

Absolute relief from all stomach misery is waiting for you as soon as you decide to begin taking Diapepsin. Tell your druggist that you want Pape's Diapepsin, because you want to be thoroughly cured of indigestion.

Washington's Birthday

The "500" party given by Brainerd Lodge, No. 615, B. P. O. E., last evening was a very pleasant affair. A large number of players were present, 21 tables being played. The evening was very enjoyably spent, the close contests for the various prizes showing the excellence of the playing. For the first ladies' prize Miss Hannah Hagberg, Mrs. J. N. Biever and Mrs. H. T. Skinner were tied, Mrs. Biever winning when they drew cuts. Mrs. F. W. Wieland drew the ladies' consolation prize. R. A. Barron, D. M. Clark and L. S. Budd tied for the gentlemen's head prize, Mr. Barron winning on the draw. Thos. Beare and J. K. Pearce disputed honor for the consolation prize for gentlemen, Mr. Pearce proving most lucky on the draw.

Refreshments were served by James Smith, of the City hotel, and were of the high class for which Mr. Smith is noted as a caterer.

Aurora Lodge, No. 100, A. F. & A. M., will entertain on Washington's birthday. The Master Mason degree will be conferred upon three candidates, the work taking place in the afternoon. The ladies of the members are to be invited to a 6 o'clock banquet which will be followed by a literary and musical program and that by card playing.

The Blackhawk club has issued invitations for a masquerade dance at Elk's hall on Monday evening, February 22, and a very enjoyable time is anticipated by those fortunate enough to receive invitations.

FARM, HOME AND GARDEN

INDIVIDUAL EAR TEST OF SEED CORN.
(Furnished by the Minnesota Farmers' Institutes, St. Anthony Park, St. Paul, Minn.)

To make the individual ear test, take a box 36 inches square and 6 inches deep, fill with sawdust, bran or sand, and moisten well. Take a cotton cloth (sheeting) large enough to completely cover top of box, mark off in 2 inch squares with a lead pencil and number squares. This makes 324 squares or space enough to test the seed needed on twenty acres.

Secure three or four fence boards. Divide the boards into 2 1/2 inch spaces by driving nails every 2 1/2 inches and number the spaces. Select the best seed ears you have and with a knife remove 10 kernels from different parts of each year, avoiding the tip and but kernels. Place these 10 kernels on square No. 1 in the box and place the ear on space No. 1 on the board. Treat each ear in the same manner, being careful to place the ear on the space corresponding in number to the square in the box on which the kernels were placed. In this manner it is easy to tell from which ear the kernels upon any one of the squares came.

Cover the box with a damp cloth and a little more sawdust and set away in a warm place, in the kitchen or living room, and keep moist but not too wet. In five or seven days examine for germination. Note the number of kernels starting and vigor of growth. On square No. 10 you may find 10 kernels sprouted. This means that ear on space 10 will germinate 100 per cent. On square No. 20 you may find only 8 kernels growing, which means 80 per cent for ear No. 20, not good enough for seed so that this ear may be discarded. No ear should be saved for seed that falls below 90 per cent. The box should be examined from time to time and any ears that have not sprouted in 5 to 7 days under favorable conditions, should be discarded.

It might be well to divide the ears into two piles, one with 90 per cent and the other with 100 per cent germinating power. 324 ears will plant from 15 to 20 acres of corn after shelling off tip and but kernels, which should be done.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

Stock Company Made Good

The Majestic Stock company played their opening engagement to a well filled house last evening, presenting "Pards," a western melodrama. The members of the stock company do not lay claim to being Richard Mansfields or Clara Morris. If they were able to do so they would not be playing stock in a town the size of Brainerd. They do, however, claim to be able to present a melodrama in a pleasing and acceptable manner and they make good. The company is very evenly balanced and all are good actors. It would be hard to tell who made the hit, but the work of Miss Georgie Edwards, as "Bessie," was a bit of soubrette acting which would be hard to beat. Warren Munsel, as Jack Mason, the gambler, took the part well and Forest Cornish made good as Alexander Fairfax, Jack Harlowe as Duncan LeMoynay, and Bert Hartman, as Jim Bixby. Ethel Wayne, was ably portrayed by Claudia Korinek, while Genevieve Raeno made a hit as Mrs. Bogg, the Irish boarding house keeper. Some clever specialties were introduced during the waits between the acts and taken altogether the audience left feeling that all had received their money's worth and more too. The play will be repeated tonight and tomorrow night.

A Daughter of Erin

The first rehearsal of the play "A Daughter of Erin," which will be produced by members of St. Francis parish on St. Patrick's day, was held Sunday afternoon and passed off nicely. Mr. C. E. Wilson, who has charge, says that members of the cast all took hold splendidly. Jack Harlow, manager of the Majestic stock company, and some of the members of the company were present and assisted in drilling those who took part, aiding very materially in the work. The play is a pleasing one and will be well produced by the following cast of characters:

MADE AGAINST HER HUSBAND

Sensational Allegations by Mrs.
W. J. Lemp, Jr.

SAYS DEFENDANT BEAT HER

Wife Also Claims That Her Millionaire Husband Threw Her Down a Flight of Stairs, Locked Her Out of Doors, Dismantled Their Home and Taught Their Son to Be an Athlete—Woman Claims Letter Was a Decoy.

St. Louis, Feb. 9.—Sensational accusations against her millionaire husband, William J. Lemp, Jr., were made by Mrs. William Handlan Lemp when she testified in the trial of the divorce suit which she has filed against him and to which he has replied with a cross bill. Mrs. Lemp swore that the defendant had beaten her and thrown her down a flight of stairs; that he had locked her out of doors; that he had employed detectives to watch her, dismantled their home by moving out the furniture and taught their son, William J. Lemp, III, to be an athlete.

Mrs. Lemp was the first witness examined and she was still on the stand when adjournment was taken for the day.

In her suit Mrs. Lemp asks for a divorce, the custody of their son and sufficient alimony to keep herself and the boy in comfortable circumstances. The cross bill filed by Mr. Lemp also asks a divorce and the custody of the child.

The religious education of the boy was one of the main causes of differences between the couple, according to Mrs. Lemp's testimony.

During the proceedings a letter was introduced in evidence which was found among his wife's private papers. It was addressed to "My Dear Little Pal," and contained this sentence:

"He is going hunting next week and wish to heaven he never would return."

Mrs. Lemp acknowledged that she had written the letter, but explained that she had done so in an effort to find out who had been tampering with her private papers.

NATIONAL ART COUNCIL'S MEETING

Discusses Question of Lincoln
Memorial Site.

Washington, Feb. 9.—At the beautiful Octagon House, the home of the American Institute of Architects, the art council of thirty appointed by the president assembled for its first meeting today. The meeting was called primarily for organization, but the Lincoln memorial site question also came up for discussion.

The president is greatly interested in the subject and wishes to have the matter of the site for the proposed memorial to Lincoln in Washington settled as soon as possible.

Such questions as the site of the Lincoln memorial come properly within the province of the council, which consists of architects, painters, sculptors, landscape architects and laymen. The object of the council is the proffering of advice and assistance in the discussion of plans for public works into which architecture, painting and sculpture enter, such as monuments, parks, bridges, etc. It is also to make recommendations for the preservation of historical monuments.

The passage was made in 4 days, 20 hours and 27 minutes.

The Mauretania has beaten every record going east; average speed, the highest day's run, and the records for the long and short routes from New York to Queenstown. This improvement is due undoubtedly to the new

A Speedy Cure for

Constipation, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Liver Complaint, First, Second, Last, in the Mouth, Bad Complexion, Nervousness and all diseases of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

"Bloodline Liver Pills" act gently, yet thoroughly upon the bowels, liver, stomach and digestive organs. The pills, in old and chronic cases of constipation and indigestion, act at once, without griping, nor do they leave any unpleasant after-effects, nor form a constant habit of purging, produced by other cathartic remedies.

"Bloodline Liver Pills" restore the deranged and torpid liver to its normal condition and healthful action. Remove and prevent constipation by securing a natural and regular operation of the bowels, and relieve those unpleasant symptoms which attend a diseased or morbid condition of the liver, stomach and bowels. To assist in attaining this end, the following suggestions are offered.

REMARKS. Everyone who uses pills for their action on the liver, should know that large doses rarely prove as satisfactory as small ones. Large doses simply purge and pass out of the system, usually leaving the bowels constipated, and seldom removing the cause of the trouble, or improve the general health. On the other hand, small doses develop the alternative effect of the medicine, do not irritate or constipate the bowels, but gently stimulate the liver and prevent the accumulation of bile by directing its flow into the proper channels. Therefore it is advisable to commence by taking not over one or two pills at bedtime and increase dose as necessary.

PORTLAND, ME.
GENTS:—I find your "Bloodline Liver Pills" the most effective pill I ever used. They cause no griping or constipation after effect as most liver pills do.

BAD STORM IS RAGING

Heaviest Snow Storm of year is Raging in Central Minnesota Today

WESTERN BRANCHES BLOCKED

Morris Train Stalled and Fergus Falls Branch Reported in Same Condition

The worst snow storm of the year is raging here today. The wind is not as strong as was the case in the storm about ten days ago, but it is coming directly off Lake Superior and the snow fall bids fair to be much heavier.

The train from Duluth and the south bound Minnesota & International train came in on time, or practically so, but telegraphic reports are to the effect that the east bound passenger from Morris, which comes here as No. 91, is stalled in the snow west of Glenwood.
The mail car on the Minnesota & International was turned here and sent north and the cars from St. Paul were brought up by a special crew from Little Falls.

The crew of the west bound passenger received orders here that the entire equipment of that train would be turned at Staples, because of the fact, it is said, that the Oakes branch is also totally blocked.

C. E. Emerson, road foreman on the Lake Superior division, came in from Duluth this noon on the passenger train and states that in Duluth, when the train left, the wind was blowing off the lake at the rate of 60 miles per hour and the snow falling so rapidly that it was impossible to see more than a few feet.

There is little or no snow on the north end of the M. & I., and snow
did not begin to fall until this forenoon at Bemidji and Walker. Whether or not the snow storm is working northward is hard to say, but that seemed the opinion of the railroad men.

The train from the south came in at 2:30, this afternoon and was composed of the big 185, six driver freight engine, pushing one of the big car plows ahead of her and hauling a caboose, a baggage and two passenger coaches.
The headlight of the engine was broken and engine and plow showed that they had been nearly buried in snow.
A force of shovelers was also brought along, but it had proved unnecessary to use them.

The Modesty of Women

Nature makes them shrink from the intricate questions, the obnoxious examinations, and unpleasant local treatments, which some physicians consider essential in the treatment of diseases of women. Yet, if help can be had, it is better to submit to this ordeal than let the disease grow and spread. The trouble is that so often the woman undergoes all the annoyance and shame for nothing.
Thousands of women who have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription write in appreciation of the cure which dispensed with the examinations and local treatments. There is no other medicine so sure and safe for delicate women as "Favorite Prescription." It cures debilitating drains, irregularity and female weakness. It always helps. It almost always cures. It is strictly nonalcoholic, non-secret, all its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper; contains no deleterious or habit-forming drugs, and every native medicinal root entering into its composition has the full endorsement of those most eminent in the several schools of medical practice. Some of these numerous and strongest of professional endorsements of its ingredients, will be found in a pamphlet wrapped around the bottle, also in a booklet mailed free on request, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. These professional endorsements should have far more weight than any amount of the ordinary lay, or non-professional testimonials.

The most intelligent women now-a-days hesitate on knowing what they take as medicine instead of opening their mouths like a lot of young birds and gulping down whatever is offered them. "Favorite Prescription" is of known composition. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

per covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound.

NO DYSPESIA AFTER TODAY

Prompt Relief From Indigestion
and all Your Stomach
Troubles

RELIEF IS WAITING FOR YOU

Don't Continue to Suffer When Such Absolute Relief is
so Handy

Why not start now—today, and forever rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion? A dieted stomach gets the blues and grumbles. Give it a good eat, then take Pape's Diap-epsin to start the digestive juices working. There will be no dyspepsia or belching of gas or eructations of undigested food; no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach or heartburn, sick headache and dizziness, and your food will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents for a large case at any drug store here, and will remove the most obstinate case of indigestion and upset stomach in five minutes.

There is nothing else better to take gas from stomach and cleanse the stomach and intestines, and besides, one triangular will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all your food
the same as a sound, healthy stomach would do it.

When Diapepsin works, your stomach rests—gets itself in order, cleans up—and then you feel like eating when you come to the table, and what you eat will do you good.

Absolute relief from all stomach misery is waiting for you as soon as you decide to begin taking Diapepsin.
Tell your druggist that you want Pape's Diapepsin, because you want to be thoroughly cured of indigestion.

National Characteristics.
Why is it that we associate the Ger-

evening was a very pleasant affair.
A large number of players were present, 21 tables being played. The evening was very enjoyably spent, the close contests for the various prizes showing the excellence of the playing.
For the first ladies' prize Miss Hannah Hagberg, Mrs. J. N. Biever and Mrs.
H. T. Skinner were tied, Mrs. Biever winning when they drew cuts. Mrs.
F. W. Wieland drew the ladies' consolation prize. R. A. Barron, D. M.
Clark and L. S. Budd tied for the gentlemen's head prize, Mr. Barron winning on the draw. Thos. Beare and J. K. Pearce disputed honor for the consolation prize for gentlemen, Mr.
Pearce proving most lucky on the draw.
Refreshments were served by James Smith, of the City hotel, and were of the high class for which Mr. Smith is noted as a caterer.

Aurora Lodge, No. 100, A. F. & A.
M., will entertain on Washington's birthday. The Master Mason degree will be conferred upon three candidates,
the work taking place in the afternoon.
The ladies of the members are to be invited to a 6 o'clock banquet which will be followed by a literary and musical program and that by card playing.

FARM, HOME AND GARDEN

INDIVIDUAL EAR TEST OF SEED CORN.
(Furnished by the Minnesota Farmers' Institutes, St. Anthony Park, St.
Paul, Minn.)

To make the individual ear test, take a box 36 inches square and 6 inches deep, fill with sawdust, bran or sand, and moisten well. Take a cotton cloth (sheeting) large enough to completely cover top of box, mark off in 2 inch squares with a lead pencil and number squares. This makes 324 squares or space enough to test the seed needed on twenty acres.

Secure three or four fence boards.
Divide the boards into 2 1/2 inch spaces by driving nails every 2 1/2 inches and number the spaces. Select the best seed ears you have and with a knife remove 10 kernels from different parts of each ear, avoiding the tip and but kernels. Place these 10 kernels on square No. 1 in the box and place the ear on space No. 1 on the board. Treat each ear in the same manner, being careful to place the ear on the space corresponding in number to the square in the box on which the kernels were placed. In this manner it is easy to tell from which ear the kernels upon any one of the squares came.

Cover the box with a damp cloth and a little more sawdust and set away in a warm place, in the kitchen or living room, and keep moist but not too wet. In five or seven days examine for germination. Note the number of kernels starting and vigor of growth.
On square No. 10 you may find 10 kernels sprouted. This means that ear on space 10 will germinate 100 per cent.
On square No. 20 you may find only 8 kernels growing, which means 80 per cent for ear No. 20, not good enough for seed so that this ear may be discarded. No ear should be saved for seed that falls below 90 per cent. The box should be examined from time to time and any ears that have not sprouted in 5 to 7 days under favorable conditions, should be discarded.

It might be well to divide the ears into two piles, one with 90 per cent and the other with 100 per cent ger-minating power. 324 ears will plant from 15 to 20 acres of corn after shelling off tip and but kernels, which should be done.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

Stock Company Made Good

The Majestic Stock company played their opening engagement to a well filled house last evening, presenting "Pards," a western melodrama. The members of the stock company do not lay claim to being Richard Mansfields or Clara Morris. If they were able to do so they would not be playing stock in a town the size of Brainerd. They do, however, claim to be able to present a melodrama in a pleasing and acceptable manner and they make good.
The company is very evenly balanced and all are good actors. It would be hard to tell who made the hit, but the work of Miss Georgie Edwards, as "Bessie," was a bit of soubrette acting which would be hard to beat. Warren Munsel, as Jack Mason, the gambler, took the part well and Forest Cornish made good as Alexander Fairfax, Jack Harlowe as Duncan LeMoine, and Bert Hartman, as Jim Bixby. Ethel Wayne, was ably portrayed by Claudia Korinek, while Genevieve Raeno made a hit as Mrs. Bogg, the Irish boarding house keeper. Some clever specialties were introduced during the waits between the acts and taken altogether the audience left feeling that all had received their money's worth and more too. The play will be repeated tonight and tomorrow night.

A Daughter of Erin

The first rehearsal of the play "A Daughter of Erin," which will be produced by members of St. Francis parish on St. Patrick's day, was held Sunday afternoon and passed off nicely.
Mr. C. E. Wilson, who has charge, says that members of the cast all took hold splendidly. Jack Harlow, manager of the Majestic stock company, and some of the members of the company were present and assisted in drilling those who took part, aiding very materially in the work. The play is a pleasing one and will be well produced

MADE AGAINST HER HUSBAND

Sensational Allegations by Mrs.
W. J. Lemp, Jr.

SAYS DEFENDANT BEAT HER

Wife Also Claims That Her Millionaire Husband Threw Her Down a Flight of Stairs, Locked Her Out of Doors, Dismantled Their Home and Taught
Their Son to Be an Athlete—Woman Claims Letter Was a Decoy.

St. Louis, Feb. 9.—Sensational accusations against her millionaire husband, William J. Lemp, Jr., were made by Mrs. William Handlan Lemp when she testified in the trial of the divorce suit which she has filed against him and to which he has replied with a cross bill. Mrs. Lemp swore that the defendant had beaten her and thrown her down a flight of stairs; that he had locked her out of doors; that he had employed detectives to watch her, dismantled their home by moving out the furniture and taught their son, William J. Lemp, III., to be an athlete.

Mrs. Lemp was the first witness examined and she was still on the stand when adjournment was taken for the day.

In her suit Mrs. Lemp asks for a divorce, the custody of their son and sufficient alimony to keep herself and the boy in comfortable circumstances.
The cross bill filed by Mr. Lemp also asks a divorce and the custody of the child.

The religious education of the boy was one of the main causes of differences between the couple, according to Mrs. Lemp's testimony.

During the proceedings a letter was introduced in evidence which was found among his wife's private papers. It was addressed to "My Dear Little Pal," and contained this sentence:

"He is going hunting next week and wish to heaven he never would return."

Mrs. Lemp acknowledged that she had written the letter, but explained that she had done so in an effort to find out who had been tampering with her private papers.

NATIONAL ART COUNCIL'S MEETING

Discusses Question of Lincoln
Memorial Site.

Washington, Feb. 9.—At the beautiful Octagon House, the home of the American Institute of Architects, the art council of thirty appointed by the president assembled for its first meeting today. The meeting was called primarily for organization, but the Lincoln memorial site question also came up for discussion.

The president is greatly interested in the subject and wishes to have the matter of the site for the proposed memorial to Lincoln in Washington settled as soon as possible.

Such questions as the site of the Lincoln memorial come properly within the province of the council, which consists of architects, painters, sculptors, landscape architects and laymen.
The object of the council is the pro-fering of advice and assistance in the discussion of plans for public works into which architecture, painting and sculpture enter, such as monuments, parks, bridges, etc. It is also to make recommendations for the preservation of historical monuments.

IOWA WOMAN A SUICIDE

Dentist's Office.

Ainsworth, Ia., Feb. 9.—Mrs. L. A.
Myers of Eldon, Ia., while visiting her father here, took strychnine on her way home from a dentist's office, where she had been having teeth filled. She was discovered lying in the road in front of her father's home
several hours later by the family dog, which went to the house and whined and barked until the father followed it to the body. The daughter died a few minutes after her father arrived.
No reason is known for the deed.

A Speedy Cure for

Constipation, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Liver Complaints, Tired Feeling, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bad Complexion, Nervousness and all diseases of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

"Bloodline Liver Pills"
act gently, yet thoroughly upon the bowels, liver, stomach and digestive organs. The pills, in old and chronic cases of constipation and indigestion, act at once, without griping, nor do they leave any unpleasant after-effects, nor form a constant habit of purging, produced by other cathartic remedies.
"Bloodline Liver Pills"
restore the deranged and torpid liver to its normal condition and healthy action. Remove and prevent constipation by securing a natural and regular operation of the bowels, and relieve those unpleasant symptoms which attend a diseased or morbid condition of the liver, stomach and bowels.
To assist in attaining this end, the following suggestions are offered.

REMARKS. Everyone who uses pills for their action on the liver, should know that large doses rarely prove as satisfactory as small ones.
Large doses simply purge and pass out of the system, usually leaving the bowels constipated, and seldom removing the cause of the trouble, or improve the general health. On the other hand, small doses develop the alternative effect of the medicine, do not irritate or constipate the bowels, but gently stimulate the liver and prevent the accumulation of bile by directing its flow into the proper channels. Therefore it is advisable to commence by taking not over one or two pills at bedtime and increase dose as necessary.

PORTLAND, ME.
GENTS:—I find your "Bloodline Liver Pills"
the most effective pill I ever used. They cause no griping or constipative after effect as most liver pills do. Yours truly,
MRS. AMADA RICHARDSON.

FARM LIFE MESSAGE.

President Tells of Country Needs.

COMMISSION'S REPORT.

More Profit and Satisfaction to Farmers Should Result From Its Work.

Washington, Feb. 9. — President Roosevelt sent to congress today a special message transmitting the report of the country life commission, appointed by him to investigate the conditions of life on the farms of the country and to make recommendations of ways and means whereby farm life may be made more remunerative and attractive.

In the message the president lays stress upon the fact that the farmers and their families are the stay and strength of the country and that whatever tends to make their lives less burdensome or unattractive is necessary to the interests of the nation. He praises the work of the members of the commission, who, as he says, have labored without pay and do not now ask compensation for their work. The only recommendation in the message is the request for an appropriation of $25,000 to enable the commission to digest the material it has collected and put it in such shape that it will be available for the nation.

In an appendix to the message, preceding the report of the commission, the president comments on the replies made by a Missouri farmer to the questions asked by the commission. "To the question, 'Is the supply of farm labor in your neighborhood satisfactory?' the answer is, 'No, because the people have gone out of the baby business,' and when asked as to the remedy he answers, 'Give a pension to every mother who gives birth to seven living boys on American soil.'"

The president's message is as follows: To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I transmit herewith the report of the commission on country life. At the outset I desire to point out that not a dollar of the public money has been paid to any commissioner for his work on the commission.

The report shows the general condition of farming life in the open country and points out its larger problems. It indicates ways in which the government, national and state, may show the people how to solve some of these problems, and it suggests a continuance of the work which the commission began.

Methods of the Commission.

Judging by thirty public hearings, to which farmers and farmers' wives from forty states and territories came, and from 120,000 answers to printed questions sent out by the department of agriculture, the commission finds that the general level of country life is high compared with any preceding time or with any other land. If it has in recent years slipped down in some places, it has risen in more places. Its progress has been general, if not uniform.

Yet farming does not yield either the profit or the satisfaction that it ought to yield and may be made to yield. There is discontent in the country and in places discouragement. Farmers as a class do not magnify their calling, and the movement to the towns, though, I am happy to say, less than formerly, is still strong.

How Farmers Can Help Themselves.

Under our system it is helpful to promote discussion of ways in which the people can help themselves. There are three main directions in which the farmers can help themselves—namely, better farming, better business and better living on the farm. The national department of agriculture, which has rendered services equalled by no other similar department in any other time or place; the state departments of agriculture, the state colleges of agriculture and the mechanic arts, especially through their extension work; the state agricultural experiment stations, the Farmers' union, the grange, the agricultural press and other similar agencies have all combined to place within the reach of the American farmer an amount and quality of agricultural information which if applied would enable him over large areas to double the production of the farm.

The object of the commission on country life, therefore, is not to help the farmer raise better crops, but to call his attention to the opportunities for better business and better living on the farm. If country life is to become what it should be and what I believe it ultimately will be—one of the most dignified, desirable and sought after ways of earning a living—the farmer must take advantage not only of the agricultural knowledge which is at his disposal, but of the methods which have raised and continue to raise the standards of living and of intelligence in other callings.

Those engaged in all other industrial and commercial callings have found it necessary to organize themselves for mutual advantage and for the protection of their own particular interests in relation to other interests. The farmers of every progressive European country have realized this essential fact and have found in the co-operative system exactly the form of business combination they need.

Now, whatever the state may do toward improving the practice of agriculture, it is not within the sphere of any government to reorganize the farmers' business or reconstruct the social life of farming communities. It is, however, quite within its power to use its influence and the machinery of publicity which it can control for calling public attention to the needs and the facts. For example, it is the obvious duty of the government to call the attention of farmers to the growing monopolization of water power. The farmers, above all, should have that power, on reasonable terms, for cheap transportation, for lighting their homes and for innumerable uses in the daily tasks on the farm.

Farmers' Own Work Needed.

It would be idle to assert that life on the farm occupies as good a position in dignity, desirability and business results as the farmers might easily give it if they chose. One of the chief difficulties is the failure of country life as it exists at present to satisfy the higher social and intellectual aspirations of country people. Whether the constant draining away of so much of the best elements in the rural population into the towns is due chiefly to this cause or to the superior business opportunities of city life may be open to question. But no one at all familiar with farm life throughout

to bring not only the farmers, but the nation as a whole, to realize that the growing of crops, though an essential part, is only a part of country life. Crop growing is the essential foundation, but it is no less essential that the farmer should get an adequate return for what he grows, and it is no less essential—indeed, it is literally vital—that he and his wife and his children shall lead the right kind of life.

For this reason it is of the first importance that the United States department of agriculture, through which as prime agent the ideas the commission stands for must reach the people, should become without delay in fact a department of country life, fitted to deal not only with crops, but also with all the larger aspects of life in the open country.

Three Needs of Country Life.

From all that has been done and learned three great general and immediate needs of country life stand out:

First.—Effective co-operation among farmers to put them on a level with the organized interests with which they do business.

Second.—A new kind of schools in the country, which shall teach the children as much outdoors as indoors, and perhaps more, so that they will prepare for country life and not, as at present, mainly for life in town.

Third.—Better means of communication, including good roads and a parcels post, which the country people are everywhere, and rightly, unanimous in demanding.

To these may well be added better sanitation, for easily preventable diseases hold several million country people in the slavery of continuous ill health.

Organization Is Necessary.

The commission points out—and I concur in the conclusion—that the most important help that the government can give is to show the people how to go about these tasks of organization, education and communication with the best and quickest results. This can be done by the collection and spread of information. One community can thus be informed of what other communities have done and one country of what other countries have done. Each help by the people's government would lead to a comprehensive plan of organization, education and communication and make the farming country better to live in, for intellectual and social reasons as well as for purely agricultural reasons.

Plea For Farmers' Wives.

In the development of character the home should be more important than the school or than society at large. When once the basic material needs have been met, high ideals may be quite independent of income, but they cannot be realized without sufficient income to provide adequate foundation, and where the community at large is not financially prosperous it is impossible to develop a high average personal and community ideal. In short, the fundamental facts of human nature apply to men and women who live in the country just as they apply to men and women who live in the towns. Given a sufficient foundation of material well being, the influence of the farmers and farmers' wives on their children becomes the factor of first importance in determining the attitude of the next generation toward farm life. The farmer should realize that the person who most needs consideration on the farm is his wife. I do not in the least mean that she should purchase ease at the expense of duty. Neither man nor woman is really happy or really useful save on condition of doing his or her duty. If the woman shirks her duty as housewife, as home keeper, as the mother whose prime function it is to bear and rear a sufficient number of healthy children, then she is not entitled to our regard. But if she does her duty she is more entitled to our regard even than the man who does his duty, and the man should show special consideration for her needs.

I warn my countrymen that the great recent progress made in city life is not a full measure of our civilization, for our civilization rests at bottom on the wholesomeness, the attractiveness and the completeness as well as the prosperity of life in the country. The men and women on the farms stand for what is fundamentally best and most needed in our American life. Upon the development of country life rests ultimately our ability by methods of farming requiring the highest intelligence to continue to feed and clothe the hungry nations, to supply the city with fresh blood, clean bodies and clear brains that can endure the terrific strain of modern life. We need the development of men in the open country, who will be in the future, as in the past, the stay and strength of the nation in time of war and its guiding and controlling spirit in time of peace.

HIGHER LIFE OF AMERICA

Subject of Consideration by Convention in Chicago.

PROMINENT EDUCATORS THERE

Some of the Best Known Professors and Leaders of Thought in the Country in Attendance—President Roosevelt Endorsed the Movement at Last Year's Meeting in Washington. Aims of Organization.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—This city is the scene today of a notable gathering of men and women interested in the higher life of America in its relations to religion and education. They have assembled here to attend the sixth general convention of the Religious Educational association, which will begin tonight a three days' meeting in Orchestra hall.

The sessions of the association will be opened by the address of the president of the association, Dr. Francis Greenwood Peabody, who is professor of Christian morals at Harvard university. He will speak on "The Social Conscience and the Religious Life." Following Dr. Peabody President Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the University of California will speak on "Religious Education and Moral Efficiency" and Professor S. C. Mitchell, president-elect of the University of South Carolina, on "Religious Education and Racial Adjustment."

The convention has brought together scores of the most prominent educators and thinkers of the country who have identified themselves with the association and who are its most enthusiastic supporters and hundreds of men and women who, though less prominent, are just as heartily in sympathy with the objects of the association.

Well Known Men in Attendance.

An extraordinary list of well known men will be in attendance and the speakers at the popular meetings, besides those mentioned above, will include President Eliot of Harvard university, Ambassador James Bryce, Miss Jane Addams of Hull House, Marion Talbot, dean of the Woman's college, University of Chicago; Professor Cyrus Northrop, president of the University of Minnesota, and others.

Organized in Chicago six years ago the association has held largely attended conventions since then in Boston, Philadelphia, Rochester and Washington. At Washington President Roosevelt received the delegates at the White House and gave his heartiest endorsement to all the ideals of the movement. The purpose of the association is to inspire the educational forces of the country with the religious ideal, to inspire the religious forces of our country with the educational ideal and to keep before the public the ideal of religious education and the sense of its need and value.

The association now enrolls more than 2,000 members, including laymen, college presidents and professors, pastors, teachers and parents, interested in the problem of character training. It knows no sectarian lines and has no theological platform.

ALLEGED TIMBER FRAUDS

Said to Have Been Unearthed in Oklahoma.

Muskogee, Okla., Feb. 9.—Alleged timber frauds and thefts of gigantic proportions are said to have been unearthed by the government timber inspectors in Southwest Oklahoma and are under investigation by the federal grand jury which reconvened here after a four-days' recess. There are about fifty witnesses who will testify and twelve of them were examined. Relative to the alleged frauds the government officials remain reticent, but from other sources it is learned that several large timber companies are said to have been cutting fine hardwood timber on Indian lands for years. Much pine lumber is also said to have been used.

Hepburn Loses Recount.

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 9.—Representative W. P. Hepburn lost his recount in Union county when the scheduled hearing at Creston went by default. None of Colonel Hepburn's attorneys put in an appearance and after waiting all day Mr. Jamieson's attorneys returned to their homes. This ends the contest in Union county and probably in the entire district.

Thirteen Men Killed.

Lima, Peru, Feb. 9.—A bridge over the Central railway near Tambaraque collapsed owing to a collision between a locomotive and a construction car. Thirteen men were killed, of whom six were Americans, including Second Engineer Niblock of the construction department of the American Bridge company.

FARM LIFE MESSAGE.

President Tells of Country Needs.

COMMISSION'S REPORT.

More Profit and Satisfaction to Farmers Should Result From Its Work.

Washington, Feb. 9. — President Roosevelt sent to congress today a special message transmitting the report of the country life commission, appointed by him to investigate the conditions of life on the farms of the country and to make recommendations of ways and means whereby farm life may be made more remunerative and attractive.

In the message the president lays stress upon the fact that the farmers and their families are the stay and strength of the country and that whatever tends to make their lives less burdensome or unattractive is necessary to the interests of the nation. He praises the work of the members of the commission, who, as he says, have labored without pay and do not now ask compensation for their work. The only recommendation in the message is the request for an appropriation of $25,000 to enable the commission to digest the material it has collected and put it in such shape that it will be available for the nation.

In an appendix to the message, preceding the report of the commission, the president comments on the replies made by a Missouri farmer to the questions asked by the commission. "To the question, 'Is the supply of farm labor in your neighborhood satisfactory?' the answer is, 'No, because the people have gone out of the baby business,' and when asked as to the remedy he answers, 'Give a pension to every mother who gives birth to seven living boys on American soil.'"

The president's message is as follows: To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I transmit herewith the report of the commission on country life. At the outset I desire to point out that not a dollar of the public money has been paid to any commissioner for his work on the commission.

The report shows the general condition of farming life in the open country and points out its larger problems. It indicates ways in which the government, national and state, may show the people how to solve some of these problems, and it suggests a continuance of the work which the commission began.

Methods of the Commission. Judging by thirty public hearings, to which farmers and farmers' wives from forty states and territories came, and from 120,000 answers to printed questions sent out by the department of agriculture, the commission finds that the general level of country life is high compared with any preceding time or with any other land. If it has in recent years slipped down in some places, it has risen in more places. Its progress has been general, if not uniform.

Yet farming does not yield either the profit or the satisfaction that it ought to yield and may be made to yield. There is discontent in the country and in places discouragement. Farmers as a class do not magnify their calling, and the movement to the towns, though, I am happy to say, less than formerly, is still strong.

How Farmers Can Help Themselves.

Under our system it is helpful to promote discussion of ways in which the people can help themselves. There are three main directions in which the farmers can help themselves—namely, better farming, better business and better living on the farm. The national department of agriculture, which has rendered services equalled by no other similar department in any other time or place; the state departments of agriculture, the state colleges of agriculture and the mechanic arts, especially through their extension work; the state agricultural experiment stations, the Farmers' union, the grange, the agricultural press and other similar agencies have all combined to place within the reach of the American farmer an amount and quality of agricultural information which if applied would enable him over large areas to double the production of the farm.

The object of the commission on country life, therefore, is not to help the farmer raise better crops, but to call his attention to the opportunities for better business and better living on the farm. If country life is to become what it should be and what I believe it ultimately will be—one of the most dignified, desirable and sought after ways of earning a living—the farmer must take advantage not only of the agricultural knowledge which is at his disposal, but of the methods which have raised and continue to raise the standards of living and of intelligence in other callings.

Those engaged in all other industrial and commercial callings have found it necessary under modern economic conditions to organize themselves for mutual advantage and for the protection of their own particular interests in relation to other interests. The farmers of every progressive European country have realized this essential fact and have found in the co-operative system exactly the form of business combination they need.

Now, whatever the state may do toward improving the practice of agriculture, it is not within the sphere of any government to reorganize the farmers' business or reconstruct the social life of farming communities. It is, however, quite within its power to use its influence and the machinery of publicity which it can control for calling public attention to the needs and the facts. For example, it is the obvious duty of the government to call the attention of farmers to the growing monopolization of water power. The farmers, above all, should have that power, on reasonable terms, for cheap transportation, for lighting their homes and for innumerable uses in the daily tasks on the farm.

Farmers' Own Work Needed.

It would be idle to assert that life on the farm occupies as good a position in dignity, desirability and business results as the farmers might easily give it if they chose. One of the chief difficulties is the failure of country life as it exists at present to satisfy the higher social and intellectual aspirations of country people. Whether the constant draining away of so much of the best elements in the rural population into the towns is due chiefly to this cause or to the superior business opportunities of city life may be open to question. But no one at all familiar with farm life throughout

to bring not only the farmers, but the nation as a whole, to realize that the growing of crops, though an essential part, is only a part of country life. Crop growing is the essential foundation, but it is no less essential that the farmer should get an adequate return for what he grows, and it is no less essential—indeed, it is literally vital—that he and his wife and his children shall lead the right kind of life.

For this reason it is of the first importance that the United States department of agriculture, through which as prime agent the ideas the commission stands for must reach the people, should become without delay in fact a department of country life, fitted to deal not only with crops, but also with all the larger aspects of life in the open country.

Three Needs of Country Life.

From all that has been done and learned three great general and immediate needs of country life stand out:

First.—Effective co-operation among farmers to put them on a level with the organized interests with which they do business.

Second.—A new kind of schools in the country, which shall teach the children as much outdoors as indoors, and perhaps more, so that they will prepare for country life and not, as at present, mainly for life in town.

Third.—Better means of communication, including good roads and a parcels post, which the country people are everywhere, and rightly, unanimous in demanding.

To these may well be added better sanitation, for easily preventable diseases hold several million country people in the slavery of continuous ill health.

Organization is Necessary.

The commission points out—and I concur in the conclusion—that the most important help that the government can give is to bring the nation as a whole, to realize that the growing of crops, though an essential part, is only a part of country life. Crop growing is the essential foundation, but it is no less essential that the farmer should get an adequate return for what he grows, and it is no less essential—indeed, it is literally vital—that he and his wife and his children shall lead the right kind of life.

Plea For Farmers' Wives.

In the development of character the home should be more important than the school or than society at large. When once the basic material needs have been met, high ideals may be quite independent of income, but they cannot be realized without sufficient income to provide adequate foundation, and where the community at large is not financially prosperous it is impossible to develop a high average personal and community ideal. In short, the fundamental facts of human nature apply to men and women who live in the country just as they apply to men and women who live in the towns. Given a sufficient foundation of material well being, the influence of the farmers and farmers' wives on their children becomes the factor of first importance in determining the attitude of the next generation toward farm life. The farmer should realize that the person who most needs consideration on the farm is his wife. I do not in the least mean that she should purchase ease at the expense of duty. HIGHER LIFE OF AMERICA

Subject of Consideration by Convention in Chicago.

Some of the Best Known Professors and Leaders of Thought in the Country in Attendance—President Roosevelt Endorsed the Movement at Last Year's Meeting in Washington. Aims of Organization.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—This city is the scene today of a notable gathering of men and women interested in the higher life of America in its relations to religion and education. They have assembled here to attend the sixth general convention of the Religious Educational association, which will begin tonight a three days' meeting in Orchestra hall.

The sessions of the association will be opened by the address of the president of the association, Dr. Francis Greenwood Peabody, who is professor of Christian morals at Harvard university. He will speak on "The Social Conscience and the Religious Life." Following Dr. Peabody President Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the University of California will speak on "Religious Education and Moral Efficiency" and Professor S. C. Mitchell, president-elect of the University of South Carolina, on "Religious Education and Racial Adjustment."

The convention has brought together scores of the most prominent educators and thinkers of the country who have identified themselves with the association and who are its most enthusiastic supporters and hundreds of men and women who, though less prominent, are just as heartily in sympathy with the objects of the association.

Well Known Men in Attendance.

An extraordinary list of well known men will be in attendance and the speakers at the popular meetings, besides those mentioned above, will include President Eliot of Harvard university, Ambassador James Bryce, Miss Jane Addams of Hull House, Marion Talbot, dean of the Woman's college, University of Chicago; Professor Cyrus Northrop, president of the University of Minnesota, and others.

Organized in Chicago six years ago the association has held largely attended conventions since then in Boston, Philadelphia, Rochester and Washington. At Washington President Roosevelt received the delegates at the White House and gave his heartiest endorsement to all the ideals of the movement. The purpose of the association is to inspire the educational forces of the country with the religious ideal, to inspire the religious forces of our country with the educational ideal and to keep before the public the ideal of religious education and the sense of its need and value.

The association now enrolls more than 2,000 members, including laymen, college presidents and professors, pastors, teachers and parents, interested in the problem of character training. It knows no sectarian lines and has no theological platform.

ALLEGED TIMBER FRAUDS

Said to Have Been Unearthed in Oklahoma.

Muskogee, Okla., Feb. 9.—Alleged timber frauds and thefts of gigantic proportions are said to have been unearthed by the government timber inspectors in Southwest Oklahoma and are under investigation by the federal grand jury which reconvened here after a four-days' recess. There are about fifty witnesses who will testify and twelve of them were examined. Relative to the alleged frauds the government officials remain reticent, but from other sources it is learned that several large timber companies are said to have been cutting fine hardwood timber on Indian lands for years. Much pine lumber is also said to have been used.

Hepburn Loses Recount.

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 9.—Representative W. P. Hepburn lost his recount in Union county when the scheduled hearing at Creston went by default. None of Colonel Hepburn's attorneys put in an appearance and after waiting all day Mr. Jamieson's attorneys returned to their homes. This ends the contest in Union county and probably in the entire district.

Thirteen Men Killed.

Lima, Peru, Feb. 9.—A bridge over the Central railway near Tamboque collapsed owing to a collision between a locomotive and a construction car. Thirteen men were killed, of whom six were Americans, including Second Engineer Niblock of the construction department of the American Bridge company.

Breaks World's Record.

Pittsburg, Feb. 9.—J. N. Mason of Newark, N. J., broke the world's record for one mile on roller skates at the national professional roller skating championship races, his time being 2 minutes, 49½ seconds.

STILL GROPING FOR CLEWS

Police of Dayton, O., Have Not Solved Murder Mystery.

Dayton, O., Feb. 9.—Still groping for clues to the identity of Elizabeth Fulhart's murderer and to possess every scrap of information concerning the whereabouts of the girl prior to the crime, the police of Dayton have been unable as yet definitely to settle upon a stable theory of the mystery. Chemist Bliss of Springfield, who is examining the dead girl's stomach, says it will be impossible for him to submit a report under a week.
